WHY THIS COMES FIRST

Same playbook. Different results.

01

Same leads

02

Same script

03

Same agent

The difference is the person running it.

PSYCHO-CYBERNETICS

Your self-image is your ceiling.

“The self-image sets the boundaries of individual accomplishment.”

Expand the self-image and you expand the area of the possible.

Maxwell Maltz, Psycho-Cybernetics (1960), introduction.

RAISE YOUR STANDARD

Decide who you are.

I'll try to send some DMs	I send my DMs every day
Maybe they'll book	I ask for the meeting
I'm new at this	I run an AI agency

WHAT I CALL IT

Shadow boxing.

Fight the round in your head before you step in the ring.

MALTZ, PSYCHO-CYBERNETICS

“Your nervous system cannot tell the difference between an imagined experience and a ‘real’ experience.”

Maxwell Maltz, Psycho-Cybernetics, chapter 3 (Imagination). 'Shadow boxing' is Dan's name for the practice.

SHADOW BOXING A SALES CALL

Rehearse it. Then dial.

01

See the call

Their name, your opener, your tone

02

Hit the hard parts

‘Too expensive.’ ‘Send me info.’

03

Feel it land

They say yes. You book it.

Maltz's daily version: the Theater of Your Mind. Picture it on a screen, in detail.

Maxwell Maltz, Psycho-Cybernetics, chapter 3: the daily 'Theater of Your Mind' imagination practice.

A HAPPY POCKET FULL OF MONEY

Live like it's already here.

WRITE IT

Your future, in the present tense

‘I run a team that books jobs for local businesses.’

ACT ON IT

One thing today that person would do

Send the DMs. Book the demo. Ship the agent.

David Cameron Gikandi, A Happy Pocket Full of Money: live from the end result as if it is already real.

ATOMIC HABITS

Every action is a vote.

1% better every day.
About 37 times better in a year.

Don't chase the goal. Become the person who does the work.

James Clear, Atomic Habits: identity-based habits; 1.01^365 is about 37.8.

THE 10X RULE

Bigger targets. Way more action.

TARGETS

10 times what you think you want

ACTION

10 times the action you think it takes

Grant Cardone, The 10X Rule.
